CHAIR'S REPORT 2015 – 2019

am honoured to have served as Commonwealth Games Scotland (CGS) Chair over the last four years, during such a busy and successful time for the organisation.

There have been so many highlights for me personally and in particular it was a huge privilege to be in the Gold Coast last April to witness Team Scotland win 44 medals, our best ever medal tally at an overseas Games. The Gold Coast put on a spectacular event and the 11 days of competition included so many inspirational and memorable Scottish performances, with equal medal events for men and women and a further increase to the para-sport programme.

This quadrennial also saw two editions of the Commonwealth Youth Games, as it moved to a new position in the calendar. It was hugely uplifting to see Team Scotland's young athletes perform with distinction on the international stage in Samoa in 2015 and in the Bahamas in 2017. Undoubtedly the learnings and experience they gained will benefit them and Team Scotland in the future.

These positive results demonstrate the significant commitment and hard work of all involved across Scotland's world-class sporting system. I am proud that CGS has truly built on the incredible success of Glasgow 2014 and continues to show our ambition to push the boundaries on the international stage. A huge thank you to our member sports, who not only shared, but strived to achieve our collective ambition and to sportscotland and the sportscotland institute of sport for their continued expertise, support and investment.

I would also like to thank the Scottish Government for their ongoing strong support and commitment to ensuring we have the necessary investment to fly the flag for Scotland on the international stage and achieve our future goals. In particular I would like to acknowledge the support given by successive Sports Ministers, Jamie Hepburn MSP (2015-2017) and Aileen Campbell MSP (2017-2018) who joined us to see the team in action on the Gold Coast, as well as staff in the Active Scotland Division. We are now working closely with the current Minister, Joe FitzPatrick MSP as we prepare for the 2022 Games, much closer to home in Birmingham.

However as planning for 2022 picks up pace, CGS must not be complacent. There are undoubtedly significant challenges ahead, as the CGF continues to make the case for the Games to maintain its place in the congested international sporting calendar and works to attract host cities with the ability to see the project through from bid to delivery, against a challenging international economic and political backdrop. We also know just how difficult it still is, to secure sufficient funding for high performance sport, to continue to deliver the fabulous results now expected and that generate such national pride and inspiration.

I would urge everyone in Scottish sport to continue to work together, to demonstrate even better, how sporting success at the highest level positively impacts on young people and communities across the country, making it an attractive investment for both the public and private sector.

And finally, I would like to thank all the CGS Board Directors and advisers for their support to me as Chair and for their time and commitment to driving the organisation forward over the last four years. I would also like to thank our hard working professional staff and the expanded team staff at every Games, who work tirelessly to ensure that we create the optimum environment for our athletes to excel, as well as enjoy a positive experience representing Team Scotland at the Commonwealth Games, creating friendships and memories that last a lifetime.

Paul Bush OBE Chair, Commonwealth Games Scotland

This report summarises activity relating to Commonwealth Games Scotland (CGS), the delivery of its strategic plan and operations since May 2015. This period encompassed the Commonwealth Youth Games in Samoa 2015 and Bahamas 2017, along with the Gold Coast Commonwealth Games in early 2018.

Overview

Whilst our priority has been on team planning and delivery for those Games, we have also focused on delivery of outcomes in other areas outlined in the eight year Strategic Plan 2016-23.

Notable areas of change include a review of our Corporate Governance Articles of Association with new membership criteria, a rebranding exercise, redevelopment of our commercial partnership programme on the back of our new Commercial Strategy and the successful launch of the new format Team Scotland Scottish Sports Awards.

In 2015 we were pleased to support the successful election of our past Chair, Louise Martin CBE as Commonwealth Games Federation (CGF) President, continuing a strong Scottish presence on the international stage.

On the back of the Glasgow 2014 Games we are pleased to note the wider legacy programmes continuing to be delivered by sports organisations and the wider community, in particular the sustained increase in membership of sports bodies across Scotland.

This cycle has seen challenging times for sport, both nationally and internationally, with pressures on Government and Lottery funding. During this period the hosts for both the 2017 Commonwealth Youth Games and 2022 Commonwealth Games were changed, with Bahamas replacing St Lucia and Birmingham replacing Durban. The strong interest by potential hosts when 2022 bidding was re-opened bodes well for future Games host options, with new 2022 host Birmingham offering an opportunity for Team Scotland to perform in a familiar environment, close to home.

We would also like to formally congratulate those colleagues who received honours for services to sport during this quadrennial, particularly past and present members of the CGS Board and Games Teams. These include Life Vice President Louise Martin CBE awarded a Damehood, Board members Michael Cavanagh, Maureen Campbell, awarded OBEs and Margaret Ann Fleming an MBE. There was also an MBE for Life Vice President Colin McEachran, 2018 General Team Manager Leslie Roy and 2014 Flag Bearer Euan Burton.

Finally, we wish to note the sad passing during this period of former CGS Board members, including Life President, Sir Peter Heatly CBE, former Honorary Secretary, Douglas Brown and past Vice Chair, Dr Fiona McEwan. All contributed immensely to the success of our organisation over many years and we thank them and their families for their commitment and contribution to sport in Scotland.

Activity and achievements

The following summary is set out against the key areas of the CGS Strategic Plan.

Being Well Organised and Structured

- A review of the CGS Articles of Association was approved and all requirements under the Companies Act have been met. All company statutory returns were made in accordance with our company status, along with those for the Team Scotland Youth Trust (TSYT), formerly known as the Scottish Commonwealth Games Youth Trust, for which we provide administrative support.
- In July 2016 CGS achieved the Preliminary level of the Equality Standard for Sport. We are now working towards the Foundation level. We are proud to note that our Board composition exceeds gender targets set by UK Sport and the Scottish Government.
- Paul Bush OBE and Michael Cavanagh OBE continue as CGS representatives on the Scottish Commonwealth Games Endowment Fund.
- Michael Cavanagh and Alasdair MacLennan represent CGS on the Board of the TSYT. We welcomed the appointment of double Commonwealth Games gold medallist Caitlin McClatchey to the position of Chair of the TSYT and look forward to development of the Trust as its continues to support young Scottish athletes.

- Following a sportscotland led Self-Assessment Audit in 2015, our four yearly independent Development Audit was conducted by KPMG in early 2016, with a satisfactory grade, the highest level being awarded.
- All CGS policies and procedures are reviewed annually to ensure we continue to operate according to requirements and best practice.
- We became a signatory of the new UK Anti-Doping Clean Games Policy, with participation in the Clean Games modules a prerequisite of Team Scotland membership.
- Team policies for the 2017 Youth Games in Bahamas were revised with particular emphasis on applying principles of Safeguarding in Sport developed with Children 1st.
- CGS became an adviser to a CGF/ UNICEF group advising on development of an international safeguarding policy.
- CGS staff stands at five at the end of the Quadrennial, with CEO Jon Doig, Head of Games Operations Elinor Middlemiss, Corporate Services Manager Adrienne Sunderland, Team Services Manager Helen Toole (replacing Catherine Goodfellow in late 2017), and Digital Services and Communications Officer Gillian Cooke. Our Marketing and Events Project Manager, Emma Milroy left CGS at the end of March.
- All Board minutes are posted on the CGS website.
- A new Strategic Plan was drafted and, following a review of Financial Principles, a new Business Plan developed. An HR Health check and Organisational Review were also concluded during this period.

- Non-Executive Directors Bruce Cook, Leigh Robinson, and Susie Crawford were appointed by the new Board, along with Colin Gregor as Athletes' Representative. Joan Watt and Carolyn Morgan were re-appointed as Honorary Medical Adviser and Honorary Legal Adviser respectively. In 2017 Leigh Robinson resigned and in 2018 Jackie Davidson was appointed as a non-Executive Director.
- Mid-term elections were held for Ordinary Directors in 2017, with Margaret Ann Fleming re-appointed and Jennifer Barsby (nee Livingstone) appointed.
- An Athletes Advisory Panel, chaired by Athlete Director Colin Gregor, was established.

Leading Successful Teams

- 224 athletes were selected for Gold Coast 2018, supported by 128 staff, making this our biggest ever overseas team with 352 members. There was additional support from six staff and local volunteers at the Team Camp on the Sunshine Coast and two staff and local volunteers at Scotland House.
- Winning 44 medals, including nine Gold, made this our most successful ever overseas Games team in terms of the number of medals won. 58% of athletes achieved top 6 places, which was the core selection aim, and 98% of athletes responding to surveys reported a positive or very positive Games experience.
- Jon Doig acted as the 2018 Chef De Mission with Elinor Middlemiss as Deputy Chef de Mission. 17 staff were former Team Scotland Commonwealth Games athletes.

- Seven site visits to the Gold Coast took place between 2015 through to 2017 to develop working relationships with Gold Coast 2018 organisers and assess preparations to assist our planning. These included a visit in November 2015 with sport Performance Directors and in May 2017 with General Team Management and Team Managers.
- General Selection Criteria were agreed by the Board and AGM in 2015 and all sport specific selection policies were in place by January 2017. All sport entries were subsequently made in 2018, with no legal challenges to selection decisions.
- A Team Camp for staff was held in October 2017 and a full Team Camp for athletes and staff in February 2018. This successfully provided a platform to share key information and was critical in developing team ethos and understanding.
- A number of Games Team support programmes in Australia including Team Scotland Camp and Scotland House were all in place and successfully operated to support the team, with full input from a range of wider partners.
- Eilidh Doyle, Athletics, was selected by her teammates as Team Scotland Flag Bearer for the Opening Ceremony, with Alex Marshall MBE, Paul Foster MBE and Jen McIntosh also nominated. Duncan Scott was selected as Team Scotland Flag Bearer for the Closing Ceremony based on his six medal winning Games performance.

- The CGS Gold Coast Review reported towards the end of 2018, with subsequent workshops in 2018 and 2019 to discuss recommendations for Birmingham 2022 and beyond.
- Regular Team planning meetings were held with sportscotland as part of a joint Gold Coast 2018 Planning Group and CGS attended individual Governing Body Mission 2018 meetings to further integrate planning. A joint planning structure for Birmingham 2022 has already been established.
- Four site visits to Birmingham have already been undertaken as part of 2022 Games Planning.
- Elinor Middlemiss was appointed General Team Manager for the 2015 Samoa Commonwealth Youth Games, with David Somerville named as deputy. Both are former Games athletes. 28 Athletes were selected in eight of the nine Games sports with 21 medals won across five sports. Team Scotland Flag Bearer at the Opening Ceremony was Craig McLean from Swimming.
- Colin Gregor was appointed General Team Manager for the 2017 Bahamas Commonwealth Youth Games. As part of our commitment to development and succession planning, six former Team Scotland athletes were included in the management of the seven sports in the Youth Games Team. Athletes were selected in seven of the nine Games sports with 21 medals won in six sports. Boxer. Lewis Johnstone was selected as Team Flagbearer. Scott McLay from Swimming was our most successful individual athlete with five medals including three gold, a Scottish Youth Games record.

Building Integrated Partnerships

- Team Scotland success continues to be prioritised by the Scottish Government and sportscotland as part of the development and delivery of a 'World Class Sporting System'.
- CGS works closely with sportscotland as our national sport partner, accessing advisory services, investment support for staff and Games team projects. Most notable was support for the Team Camp on the Sunshine Coast, in addition to the release of staff for team support and providing access to support services.
- The Team Camp was successfully delivered for 16 of the 18 sports with the assistance of Sunshine Coast Council and University of the Sunshine Coast.
- CGS has played a lead role in the development and direction of the Commonwealth Games Federation at General Assembly, European CGA level and through regular contact with CGF Board members and staff. Louise Martin was appointed as CGF President and Rhona Toft (nee Simpson) was appointed as Head of the CGF Athlete Commission, with Colin Gregor appointed as European Athlete representative on this body. Based on the CGS experience as host CGA with Glasgow 2014, considerable input was provided to Commonwealth Games England in preparation for its Birmingham 2022 bid.
- CGS has developed its relationship with Winning Scotland Foundation, sportscotland and Winning Students to support the delivery of the Champions in Scotland programme.

- CGS is based at the University of Stirling and continues to receive strong operational support, including hosting of the CGS Archives. The University has provided PhD and student intern support around the Archives, Queen's Baton Relay, social media, data analytics, marketing and event activities.
- Relationships with the British Olympic Association have been strengthened through sharing of mutual policies, planning and operational experiences around the Rio and Tokyo Olympics and Gold Coast Games.
- A strong relationship has been maintained with EventScotland with support of Scotland House in the Gold Coast and support in the delivery of the Team Scotland Scottish Sports Awards.
- At local authority level we enjoy good working relationships across the country, developed through the planning and delivery of the Queen's Baton Relay, the Hosts and Champions exhibition and other activities.
- Further support has been given to the Team Scotland Youth Trust with the Team Scotland Scottish Sport Awards acting as the main fundraising event for the Trust. Over the last four year period, over 70 athlete scholarships, at a value over £100,000 were provided to athletes from 16 sports. CGS provides core operational support for the Trust through its staff.

 Wider partnerships were also developed with Scottish charities including LGBTI+ sport body Leap Sports Scotland, Save a Life, a charity promoting awareness of cardiac lifesaving and Stirling based Foodbank, Start Up Stirling. In addition, through donations of surplus clothing and equipment we have supported other overseas partners, dealing with domestic violence and homelessness in Gold Coast, as well as Africa on the Ball and the Ideals Programme in Zambia.

Securing Our Financial Base

- Financial management policies and eight year advance budgets have been reviewed and adjusted.
- The commercial strategy has been developed based on the new Team Scotland brand.
- Converting sponsors proved challenging in the difficult economic climate post Glasgow 2014, but we were grateful for support for Team Scotland and the Team Scotland Scottish Sports Awards from CGI, Emirates, 2018 European Championships, The Park Practice, TYR, Medi UK, Active Scotland, Aberdeen Standard Investments, EDF, The Scottish Sun, University of Stirling, PSL/Canterbury, Eden Mill and Glasgow Airport.
- We continue to receive support from sportscotland and the Scottish Government and longer term investment proposals for the 2022 Games cycle have been submitted for consideration. Independent research shows strong public support for continued investment in Team Scotland success.

- A further 28 athletes have drawn down on their medallist reward funding from the 2010 and 2014 Games, with 55 of 85 athletes receiving awards having now claimed against this programme. These funds are held and invested separately from the main CGS investment accounts. Funds assist athletes to transition to post competition life through areas of need such as education and re-training.
- With the 2022 Games awarded to Birmingham, our marketing rights, and those of CGAs in England, Wales and Northern Ireland, have been taken up as part of a Joint Marketing Agreement effective from the end of September 2018.

Promoting and Celebrating Team Scotland: One Team

- A new Marketing Strategy was developed under the direction of Board Director Susie Crawford.
- The Team Scotland brand was re-developed in conjunction with agency Brand Oath. The new brand was launched in September 2016 at the Team Scotland Scottish Sports Awards and has since been rolled out across our wider events and communications. The design was incorporated into the Team uniforms for the Bahamas and Gold Coast. Linked with an Aboriginal theme, the new brand was used to create a strong visual presence on the Gold Coast in the Village, Scotland House and at the Team Preparation Camp, supporting the Organising Committee's Reconciliation Action Plan. The brand mark is now registered as a CGS trademark. Independent research shows strong public reach of the brand with 39% of the public associating Team Scotland with the Scottish Commonwealth Games team and 23% recognising the logo 18 months after its introduction.

- Glasgow 2014 Games mascot Clyde was re-launched as a Team Scotland mascot at the Awards in 2016.
- Through digital media and written communications including our Countdown newsletter and Team Media Guide, we continue to promote Commonwealth Games sports, athletes, partners and sponsors. We have increased the already high Team Scotland profile via our popular @Team Scotland digital media channels with over 78.000 Twitter. 36.000 Facebook and 9,000 Instagram followers. This gives Team Scotland the highest following for a Scottish national sports body outwith Rugby and Football and the highest internationally for a non-Olympic Commonwealth Games Association.
- In April 2017 our website was re-developed and re-launched as www. teamscotland.scot under the Team Scotland brand.
- At the annual CGS Awards in 2015, Robbie Renwick was awarded the Lonsdale Trophy for Athlete of the Year and Duncan Scott the Sir Peter Heatly Trophy for Young Athlete of the Year. The event was re-launched in 2016 as the Team Scotland Scottish Sports Awards to profile performances and contributions to sport from across Scotland. Awards winners included Emirates Scottish Sportsperson of the Year to Andy Murray (2016), and subsequently to Samantha Kinghorn (2017) and Duncan Scott (2018). Young Athlete Award Winners were Maria Lyle (2016), leuan James (2017) and Lucas Thomson (2018). Lifetime Achievement Awards were made to Dame Katherine Grainger (2016), Gavin Hastings OBE (2017) and Alex Marshall MBE (2018) with Steph Inglis (2016), Judy Murray OBE (2017) and David Smith MBE (2018) receiving Team Scot of the Year awards.

- The travelling exhibition of the CGS Archive 'Hosts and Champions: Scotland in the Commonwealth Games' has visited 19 separate locations across Scotland since 2015 including Shetland, Orkney, Glasgow, East Lothian, Angus, East Dumbartonshire, the Borders, Dumfries and Galloway, Stirling, Perth, North Ayrshire and Edinburgh engaging visitors by showcasing CGS history and local connections to the Team. The exhibition also formed a centerpiece at Scotland House on the Gold Coast in 2018.
- The CGS Archive has also featured in eight conferences on Sports History. The Archive items are also being used in the ground breaking Sporting Memories Network to assist those with memory loss, delivering intergenerational work and facilitating physical activity.
- In 2016 the CGF recognised the many years of service given by Joan Watt to Commonwealth Games and sport in Scotland with a CGF Merit Award.
- The 2018 Queens Baton Relay (QBR) was in Scotland for five days in 2017 visiting schools, and events in Angus, Aberdeen, Dundee, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Argyll and Bute, Falkirk and Stirling. This was as part of the wider promotion of Team Scotland pre 2018, engaging and inspiring young people in particular, to succeed in sport.

- In the period leading up to each Games a significant number of media announcements were made as part of the CGS Communications Plan (see the CGS website) including team selections, team camps, Commonwealth Day activities, the QBR, a visit by Gold Coast 2018 Mascot, Borobi to meet Clvde, and a 'One Year to Go' event at Portobello Beach which were all covered by BBC, STV and other Scottish media. A media contingent of more than 25 travelled to Gold Coast to cover Team Scotland's participation at the Games, generating extensive coverage across broadcast. print and online.
- Team Scotland athletes visited many schools and clubs as part of the Champions in Scotland programme and in individual visits before and after the Games. In 2017/18 91 schools from 23 local authorities received visits delivering workshops to around 2,500 pupils. More than a quarter of these schools involved the Champions in whole-school activities such as assemblies, award ceremonies or sports days - enabling around 5,000 additional young people to be inspired by a sporting role-model. Over the last four years every local authority has had a school visit from a Team Scotland athlete
- Team Scotland and its athletes received a number of Awards recognising Games related achievements, including Sunday Mail sportscotland Editor's Choice Award 2018, Young Scot Team of the Year Award 2018 and 2018 Daily Record Our Heroes Award.

Actions underpinned by Evidence

- Underpinning the Marketing Plan, Communications Plan, Commercial Strategy and rebranding was annual research from an independent public attitude survey in Scotland conducted in 2015, 2016, 2017 and 2018 by SMG Insight/YouGov. This continues to show a very strong public association, with Team Scotland having the highest positive public perception (64%) for any Scottish sports team (and equal with Team GB in the 2016 Olympic year). The characteristics of hard working, source of pride, good role models, united, successful and strong were all qualities strongly identified with Team Scotland members
- An Athletes survey, conducted in early 2019 provided valuable information on their background, distribution and needs, to assist in future policy development, Team delivery and community engagement.

Overall the 2015-2019 period, with three Games to deliver, has been one of our busiest and most successful ever and we can look ahead to building on this over the next four years.

Jon Doig OBE Chief Executive, Commonwealth Games Scotland

The financial summary for the four Commonwealth Games Scotland accounting periods, year ending 31/12/2015 to 31/12/2018 is set out below.

Having three Games in this quadrennial has provided some financial challenges, however continued cost control, sound investment management and support from our key funding sources has enabled us to be in a positive financial position at the end of the cycle with a close to break-even position.

Key financial points to highlight are as follows:

- The significant cost of attending three Games in one four-year cycle required CGS to draw down £1m from our investment funds held by Aberdeen Standard Investments.
- We have reviewed investments, and with the support of members, hold funds for Team costs for two Games cycles with investment return a significant income item.
- Financial support for the 2015, 2017 and 2018 Team Scotland preparations was received from the Scottish Commonwealth Games Endowment Fund with £600,000 being drawn down over the four-year cycle. This fund still retains capital of £2,482,884 despite providing funding since 2003 to support Team Scotland over the last Games cycles.
- We received support from the Scottish Government of £1m during the quadrennial, towards costs for 2015, 2017 and 2018 Games.

 Over this four year cycle, incorporating three Games, Commonwealth

Games Scotland has received significant commercial, financial and VIK support from the following:

- Emirates Airlines for the Lonsdale Trophy at the Team Scotland Scottish Sports Awards and for travel assistance to the Gold Coast.
- CGI for Team support, Team Scotland Scottish Sports Awards, and for Gold Coast IT support.
- Medi UK for compression travel socks for 2015, 2017 and 2018.
- Park Practice who provided dental support to athletes.
- Glasgow Airport for Team Scotland travel assistance.
- PSL for clothing, Team Scotland Scottish Sports Awards and 2018 merchandising.
- Commonwealth Games Federation Development Grant.
- Gold Coast 2018 for a Travel Grant.
- Annual investment from sportscotland of £163,000 per annum was received from 2015-2017. The method of support was changed in 2018, from an overall award for CGS operational costs, to provision of financial assistance based on funding for individual projects. In 2018, support was received for the Sunshine Coast Team Camp and for associated Team marketing and photography.

- Athletes continue to draw down funds from the Medallist Reward Schemes implemented for the 2010 Games in Delhi and 2014 Games in Glasgow, with 30 athletes having balances remaining. Funds are held and released on request following the athlete retirement, with an RPI adjustment.
- Games time financial procedures were reviewed and implemented for the Games in Samoa 2015, Bahamas 2017 and for Gold Coast in 2018.
- Financial operations continue to be managed by the CGS office through the Chief Executive and Corporate Services Manager, in line with our Financial Procedures. This is overseen by the Finance Director, who, together with the Chief Executive, directs CGS long term investments with our investment managers.
- Our Accounts preparation and audit services were reviewed in 2016, in line with our Procurement Strategy and Thomson Cooper were appointed to provide these services.
- In preparation for the HM Customs & Excise requirement to submit VAT Returns digitally (MTD) in 2019, a review of our VAT Consultancy Provision was conducted. VAT Planning Group was reappointed.
- In line with our Financial Procedures, a full financial audit was undertaken of 2018 accounts by our accountants Thomson Cooper. This resulted in a clean unqualified audit with no issues.

- CGS marketing rights will be held by Birmingham 2022 from 1 September 2018 until 31 August 2022 in return for a Joint Marketing payment of £2,100,000. £1,890,000 has been paid by CGF in 2018 for the Joint Marketing Agreement and the final instalment of £210,000 will be received in September 2022. This income has been deferred in the 2018 accounts to be recognised over the next quadrennial of 2019 - 2022, for which the payment has been made. A further payment of £1m is also due from the Scottish Government to support CGS for the 2022 Games.
- As part of the Joint Marketing Agreement, all Birmingham 2022 partners and sponsors will be offered CGS and Team Scotland rights.

Looking ahead, once Birmingham 2022 sponsorship activation begins, a key component of our Financial Strategy is the aim for CGS and Team Scotland to develop strong links with these sponsors, to build on activity and to place us in a position for the 2026 cycle when we can re-engage with commercial partners.

2018 GAMES OVERVIEW

A fter Team Scotland's best ever Commonwealth Games in Glasgow in 2014, Scotland's athletes stepped up once again at Gold Coast 2018 to set a new record medal tally for an overseas Games.

At 224 athletes, this was the biggest team Scotland had ever sent to an away Games and included a record 93 women. There were also 18 para-sport athletes, competing in six of the seven disciplines, as Gold Coast hosted the biggest ever para-sport programme with 38 medal events.

Participating in all 18 sports on the programme, the team smashed their pre-Games medal target of 29, climbing onto the podium an incredible 44 times, winning 9 gold, 13 silver and 22 bronze. There were also many ground breaking performances throughout the 11 days of thrilling sporting action.

The scene was set from the Opening Ceremony, where multiple Olympic, World, European and Commonwealth medal winning track and field athlete, Eilidh Doyle, nominated by her fellow athletes, led Scotland into the Carrara Stadium - the first female athlete ever to do so.

Across all the sports, Scottish competitors gave it their all, with nine sports, including para-sport athletes in Athletics and Track Cycling, contributing to the medal tally. This was backed up by many other outstanding individual and team performances, with Scottish, Commonwealth Games and World Records set, alongside a host of new personal bests. Highlights included:

- Number of medallists: 50 team members won a total of 44 medals in nine sports. There were 12 gold medallists, including four double gold medallists – Neil Fachie with pilot Matt Rotherham in Para-Cycling, Ronnie Duncan and Derek Oliver in Lawn Bowls.
- First medal: Marc Austin won the first Scottish medal of the Games and a first ever Triathlon medal for Scotland.
- Top male: Gold in Men's Fours Lawn Bowls and silver in Men's Pairs took Alex Marshall's overall Commonwealth Games medal tally to five gold and one silver across six Games. This made him the most successful Scottish athlete in Games history. Duncan Scott became Scotland's most successful athlete at a single Games, winning six medals in the pool.
- Top Female: Cyclist Katie Archibald took gold in the Individual Pursuit and silver in the Points Race, to add to the bronze she won at Glasgow 2014. Grace Reid took gold in the 1m Springboard event to become the first female Scottish diver to win a medal of any colour at the Commonwealth Games.
- Top Para-Sport Athlete: Cyclist Neil Fachie, with pilot Matt Rotherham, took double gold in the Blind & Visually Impaired Tandem Sprint and Time Trial to successfully defend both titles from Glasgow 2014. With four gold medals he now sits fourth on the all-time list of top Scots.

2018 GAMES OVERVIEW

- Top Sport: Aquatics was Team Scotland's most successful sport in terms of medals won with 11 2 gold, 4 silver, 5 bronze from 12 athletes. Cycling won the most gold medals amassing a total of 10 medals by eight athletes 4 gold, 4 silver, 4 bronze.
- Medallists: 19 of the 50 medallists were competing in their first Commonwealth Games, whilst there were also 19 repeat medallists – Hannah Miley, Ross Murdoch, Duncan Scott, Stephen Milne, Dan Wallace, Neil Fachie, Katie Archibald, Ian Shaw, Neil Stirton, Darren Burnett, Alex Marshall, Paul Foster, Kay Moran, Mark Dry, Eilidh Doyle, Daniel Purvis, Frank Baines, Reece McFadden and Kirsty Gilmour.
- Youth Games: 20 team members had previously competed for Scotland at the Commonwealth Youth Games with six of Scotland's Gold Coast 2018 medallists being Youth Games medallists: Kirsty Gilmour, John Docherty, Hannah Miley, Mark Szaranek, Craig McLean and Scott McLay.

Delighted and proud of the team's performance, Team Scotland Chef de Mission, Jon Doig said: "When we started the planning process for Gold Coast our aim was to select a team that would perform with distinction in 2018, with a target of bettering our most successful overseas tally of 29 medals. We have well and truly smashed these targets and I would like to pay tribute to all the athletes and staff for contributing to this overall team success of 44 medals – a figure above even our stretch targets."

"With places on Team Scotland becoming more competitive and selection based on the potential to achieve a top six finish, we are also delighted that 58% of athletes achieved the selection standard during competition in Gold Coast, an increase of 10% from Glasgow."

"Thanks to the support of all the governing bodies of sport and sportscotland this was unquestionably a well prepared team, with all the sports contributing to our 'One Team' ethos."

quatics was the largest team of the individual sports on Team Scotland for Gold Coast 2018, with 25 swimmers, including two para-sport swimmers and four divers selected.

The Aquatics team had a mix of youth and experience with 14 of the 25 swimmers and two of the four divers having competed for Team Scotland at Glasgow 2014. This was complemented by a number of young talents making the team for the first time including Team Scotland's most successful Youth Games athlete in history, Scott McLay, who won five medals at Bahamas 2017.

The magnificent atmosphere at the open air Optus Aquatics Centre helped to create ten days of thrilling action and it proved a successful hunting ground for Team Scotland. Aquatics finished the Games with the most medals of any sport for Team Scotland with 11 - 2 gold, 4 silver and 5 bronze and only one less than their greatest ever medal haul of 12 which was also in Australia at Melbourne 2006.

pool. He racked up six medals, including a first ever gold for Scotland in the Men's 100m Freestyle, to become Scotland's most successful athlete at a single Games with 1 gold, 1 silver and 4 bronze.

Hannah Miley took a third successive medal in the Women's 400m Individual Medley, silver this time to add to the golds won in Delhi and Glasgow, while fellow defending champion from 2014. Ross Murdoch also won silver in the Men's 200m Breaststroke, losing out by the smallest of margins. There was also a silver for Mark Szaranek in the Men's 400m Individual Medley, whilst the Men's 4x100m and 4x200m Freestyle Relay teams both won bronze.

The divers continued where the swimmers left off, with James Heatly winning the Men's 1m Springboard bronze, Scotland's first Diving medal for 60 years, the last being won by his grandfather, Sir Peter Heatly at the 1958 Cardiff Games. This was swiftly followed by Grace Reid taking gold in the same event to become the first female Scottish diver to win a medal at the Commonwealth Games.

Duncan Scott truly delivered on his pre-

Games top billing and was the star of the

ATHLETICS

T wenty-two track and field athletes represented Team Scotland at Gold Coast 2018, including three para-sport athletes. 16 of the squad had previously competed at Glasgow 2014 including medallists Eilidh Doyle, Lynsey Sharp and Mark Dry. In addition, Beth Potter, selected primarily for Triathlon, also competed in the 10,000m on the track, marking a historic first.

The track and field action got underway at Carrara Stadium on day four, culminating a week later with the Marathon as one of the final events of the Games.

Despite the early start to the competitive season, there were good performances from the Scottish team and with five medals, Athletics celebrated their biggest medal tally since 1990.

Hammer thrower, Mark Dry led the way, replicating his bronze medal winning feat from Glasgow 2014 with his final throw. Flag bearer Eilidh Doyle took a third successive silver medal over the 400m Hurdles, while there was also silver for 18-year-old Maria Lyle in the para-sport Women's T35 100m on her Commonwealth Games debut. Jake Wightman was the final medallist on the track, bouncing back from the agony of a fourth place finish in the Men's 1500m, with bronze in the 800m.

There were also two near misses for Samantha Kinghorn. She finished fourth in the para-sport Women's 1500m T54 on the track and again she came agonizingly close with another fourth place in the Women's Wheelchair Marathon T54.

However, there was final day drama and contrasting fortunes for Scotland's two Marathon men. There was on outpouring of concern and well wishes for long-time leader Callum Hawkins, as he succumbed to the heat with just a mile to go, while teammate Robbie Simpson came through to claim bronze and secure Team Scotland's final medal of the Games.

Badminton

ight Badminton players, four of whom competed at Glasgow 2014 were selected to represent Team Scotland at Gold Coast 2018.

The line-up included Kirsty Gilmour, a silver medallist in 2014, competing in her third Commonwealth Games. Also making his third Games appearance was Kieran Merrilees in the Men's Singles, while Men's Doubles pairing, Martin Campbell and Patrick MacHugh, also brought experience from their home Games.

Based at the Carrara Sports and Leisure Centre, competition got underway on day one with the Mixed Team competition group stages and Team Scotland's badminton players were quick off the mark, winning both their opening matches. They wasted little time in getting the better of Pakistan to confirm a 5-0, straight games victory followed by a 4-1 win over Sri Lanka in the evening to secure their place in the quarter finals regardless of their loss against top seeds India the following day.

However, Scotland's chances of a Mixed Team medal came to an end after a spirited defeat 0-3 to defending champions Malaysia in the quarter finals.

In the individual events it was once again down to Kirsty Gilmour to contribute to the growing Team Scotland medal tally.

On the penultimate day of the Gold Coast Games, Kirsty, seeded four, replicated her medal winning feat from Glasgow four years ago, this time landing bronze in the Women's Singles.

Playing Michelle Li, the Canadian who beat her in the final in 2014, in the bronze medal match, Gilmour was on ferocious form and determined not to go home empty handed. Kirsty wasted little time asserting her authority on the match, winning the first game 21-11 as her opponent struggled. The second game was a closer affair in the opening stages, but Gilmour soon found her rhythm once more, moving Li around the court to secure the win 21-16, her first ever victory over the Canadian.

BASKETBALL

Team Scotland's top Basketball players were selected to represent Team Scotland at Gold Coast 2018, when Basketball made its return to the Commonwealth Games for the first time since Melbourne 2006.

Glasgow Rocks and GB Basketball star, Gareth Murray, was the only returning Scot from the 2006 Games and was joined by fellow Rocks teammate and GB Basketball captain, Kieron Achara who missed out through injury last time round. Also amongst an exciting line up of players making their Games debut, 17-year-old Callan Low became the youngest player ever to represent Team Scotland in Basketball.

Drawn in Pool B alongside England, Cameroon and India, the Scots were based in Townsville, a two hour flight north of Gold Coast.

Scotland tipped-off their Commonwealth campaign in style on day one as the sport

Matches against Cameroon and India swiftly followed and with the Scots growing in confidence they recorded a further two wins to confirm their place as Pool B winners and advance to the Qualifying Finals in Cairns.

Once again the team defied the pretournament rankings, securing another hard fought victory, this time against Nigeria 66-61 to earn the right to fly south to join the rest of Team Scotland on the Gold Coast, to take part in the semi finals.

Finishing fourth was a fabulous achievement and Basketball can be proud of posting Scotland's best ever result by a team sport at a Commonwealth Games.

Beach Volleyball

BEACH VOLLEYBALL

F ollowing a team qualification process, Scotland received invitations to compete in both men's and women's Beach Volleyball competitions at Gold Coast 2018 and four athletes were selected for the Games.

Seain Cook, a professional volleyball player based in Holland and Robin Miedzybrodzki, a former British Champion successfully qualified for the men's 12-team competition with an impressive win at the official European qualifying tournament in Cyprus. They were later joined by Edinburgh duo, Lynne Beattie and Melissa Coutts for the women.

Lynne had major Games experience having captained Team GB's indoor volleyball team to ninth place at London 2012, whilst beach volleyball veteran Melissa Coutts was part of the first ever Scottish team to play and win on the World Tour and a three times British Champion.

The inclusion of Beach Volleyball was another 'first' for Gold Coast 2018, as the sport made its full Commonwealth Games debut, only nine months after the sport was contested for the first time at the 2017 Commonwealth Youth Games in the Bahamas. The competition got underway on day two of the Games with the venue built on the stunning Coolangatta Beachfront, a stone's throw away from Team Scotland's 'Schools Connect' programme school, Coolangatta Primary.

Both Scotland's pairs acquitted themselves well, reaching the quarter finals.

Playing in Pool B, the men clocked up two early victories against Sri Lanka and Sierra Leone before losing to Canada and eventually going out in the quarter finals against England.

The women beat Grenada, but lost to both Cyprus and Australia in Pool A and also went out in the quarter finals, losing to Canada.

BOXING

E leven boxers were selected to represent Team Scotland at Gold Coast 2018.

Bronze medallist at Glasgow 2014, Reece McFadden returned to the team and was joined by fellow 2014 representatives Aqeel Ahmed and Scott Forrest. Samoa 2015 Youth Games gold medallists, John Docherty and Sean Lazzerini both stepped up to senior level, whilst Mitchell Barton, Stephen Newns, Robbie McKechnie and Nathaniel Collins, all Scottish champions, completed the men's line-up.

Vicky Glover became the first Scottish woman to be selected for a Commonwealth Games and was joined by Megan Gordon, who won bronze at the 2017 Commonwealth Youth Games.

The 10-day Boxing programme got underway on day one of the Games at the Oxenford Studios and despite some disappointments and close decisions, the sport continued its impressive record of being the only Scottish sport to win a medal at every Commonwealth Games. Reece McFadden (52kg) and John Docherty (75kg) both took home bronze medals, after losing out in their respective semi finals.

First up, Reece faced Northern Ireland fighter Brendan Irvine, with the Motherwell Boxer looking sharp throughout the three rounds. McFadden looked to land the majority of the punches but at the end of three rounds, the judges awarded the bout to the Northern Irishman.

In the evening session, John faced the talented Cameroon fighter Dieudonne Wilfried Seyi Ntsengue, who had been impressing the crowds with his aggressive style. John started well, but couldn't get the better of the African Middleweight, who went on to win silver.

Cycling

CYCLING

Fifteen athletes were selected for Team Scotland to compete at Gold Coast 2018 across Track, Road and Mountain Bike events. Eight of the cyclists had competed at Glasgow 2014 and the impressive line-up included Olympic champions Katie Archibald and Callum Skinner.

The Track Cycling events were held 75km away at the Anna Meares Velodrome in Brisbane, with the team staying outside the Village to be close to the venue.

By close of play on day one, Team Scotland had claimed its first gold medal of the Games, courtesy of para-cycling duo Neil Fachie and Matt Rotherham. Competing in the Blind and Visually Impaired Tandem classification, the pair carved almost two seconds off the previous Games record in the 1000m Time Trial and went on to win a second gold in the Sprint later in the week, breaking the World Record in qualification. Defending champion in both events from Glasgow, Neil became Team Scotland's most successful para-sport athlete of all time and now ranks fourth in the all-time top Scots list with four gold medals.

The early success quickly sparked a medal rush as eight cyclists claimed 10 medals between them, including four gold, to finish as Scotland's most successful sport of 2018 in terms of gold medals won.

Siblings Katie and John Archibald made history as they became the first brother/ sister pair to win medals for Team Scotland at the same Commonwealth Games on the same day. It was all the more remarkable, as John had only converted from Road to Track Cycling less than a year before the Games.

Katie struck first, with a sensational performance to take gold in the Women's 3000m Individual Pursuit, before her brother collected silver in the men's equivalent, the 4000m Individual Pursuit. Both set Games records on the way to their respective finals.

Day three saw Katie add a silver in the Women's 25km Scratch race, with teammate Neah Evans taking bronze, before Jack Carlin completed the night with a silver, in the Men's Sprint.

And finally, endurance cyclist Mark Stewart won the sport's fourth gold medal to bring the curtain down on the track events and see Scotland sit second on the Cycling medal table.

CYCLING

Stewart put in the performance of his life in the Men's 40km Points Race to complete a successful day on the boards that also saw Neah Evans win her second medal of the Games with silver in the Women's 10km Scratch Race, whilst Callum Skinner won bronze in the Men's 1000m Time Trial.

There were top ten finishes for both Team Scotland mountain bikers on the crosscountry trails at Nerang. Isla Short shone well beyond her pre-race rankings to finish fifth in a strong field on her Games debut, whilst Grant Ferguson was unable to improve on his Glasgow 2014 fifth place finish, crossing the line in ninth.

The Time Trials and Road Races took place at the Currumbin Beachfront. Katie and John Archibald were Scotland's top finishers in the Time Trials with fourth and 11th respectively, whilst Neah Evans posted the only top 10 result in the Road Race, coming eighth to conclude an action packed programme.

Gymnastics

GYMNASTICS

A full squad of 10 artistic gymnasts (five men and five women) were selected for Team Scotland at Gold Coast 2018. Three gymnasts had competed at Glasgow 2014 including three-time Games medallist Daniel Purvis and Men's Team silver medallist, Frank Baines.

Having won their first ever Team Event medal at Glasgow 2014, Scotland's men followed up with their second at the Coomera Indoor Sports Centre, winning bronze on the opening day.

Scotland started on the Pommel Horse, and despite Kelvin Cham subsequently being ruled out through injury after a short landing on the Rings, the men rallied and carried out excellent performances on the Vault, Parallel Bars, and High Bar, before finishing with four impressive Floor routines. After completing all six pieces of apparatus, the men had an overall score of 240.975, putting them in third place behind England on 258.95 and Canada on 248.65.

The results of the Team competition were also used as a means for individuals to qualify for the Individual All-Around and Apparatus Finals. For Scotland, Frank Baines and Hamish Carter both qualified for the Men's Individual All-Around Final, where they finished fourth and sixth respectively.

In the men's Individual Apparatus Finals there was further success for Team

Scotland. Dan Purvis claimed bronze on the Floor, nudging team mate Hamish Carter into fourth and there was a bronze also for Frank Baines on Parallel Bars.

Team Scotland's women placed fifth in the Women's Team event, scoring 142.95 points. Both Cara Kennedy and Shannon Archer qualified for the Women's Individual All-Around Final where they finished ninth and 10th respectively and the Vault Final where Shannon was fifth and Cara seventh.

HOCKEY

Team Scotland received an invitation to take part in both the Men's and Women's Hockey competitions at Gold Coast 2018. A full squad of 18 players were selected for each team, with both sides seeing a mix of returning players and debutants.

Scotland's men took an outstanding victory in the 2017 EuroHockey Challenge II and went into the Games set on bettering their eighth place finish from Glasgow 2014. There was a wealth of experience in the squad with Kenny Bain, Alan Forsyth, William Marshall and Gordon McIntyre all selected for their third Games and a further four players returning from Glasgow 2014.

After qualification for the World League semi-finals in 2017 and a successful test series against Wales, the women's side were looking to build on their sixth place in Glasgow. 12 players made their Games debut, while five returned from the Glasgow 2014 side, along with defender Kareena Cuthbert, whose last Games appearance was Delhi 2010.

The women had a difficult start to their campaign, with a heavy defeat against

New Zealand, and then a draw against Canada. Things picked up with a 5-0 win over Ghana, before losing their final match in Pool B to Australia to finish fourth in their Pool. They fought hard in their classification match against Malaysia to win the game 4-2 and finish the competition in seventh place.

The men got their Commonwealth Games off to a flying start with a 4-2 victory over South Africa in Pool A, before also facing Canada, New Zealand and Australia. Despite best efforts, they too succumbed to some top class opposition, but as a result of a better goal difference they finished third in their Pool and faced Malaysia in a play-off for fifth / sixth.

Alan Forsyth took the lead for Team Scotland when he scored on 10 minutes; but Malaysia, ranked 11 places above them in the world rankings, didn't take long to equalise and then went ahead in the second half. 2-1 to Malaysia was the final score, however sixth place represents Scotland's best ever finish in Men's Hockey.

LAWN BOWLS

A full complement of 17 bowlers were selected for Team Scotland at Gold Coast 2018.

Alex 'Tattie' Marshall MBE was making his sixth Commonwealth Games appearance and was joined by two fellow Glasgow gold medallists; Darren Burnett and Paul Foster MBE, making their fifth and fourth Games respectively. The men's line-up was completed by first timers Ronnie Duncan and Derek Oliver.

On the women's team Caroline Brown and Claire Johnston each returned for a third Games, while Kay Moran, now living in Australia made her second Games appearance, 12 years after her silver medal winning performance at Melbourne 2006 in the Women's Pairs. They were joined by Lesley Doig and Stacey McDougall who represented Team Scotland for the first time.

Team Scotland also had entries in both para-sport Lawn Bowls events. Irene Edgar and her Director, David Thomas made a return to Team Scotland having won silver in Glasgow in the B2/B3 Mixed Pairs and teamed up this time around with Robert Barr, directed by Sarah Jane Ewing. In the B6/B7/B8 Open Triples, Michael Simpson was the sole returning member of the team that took fourth place in Glasgow and was joined by Mike Nicoll and Garry Brown.

The competition got underway on day one of the Games at the Broadbeach Bowls Club, a world-class venue which is regular host to the Australian National Championships and a range of top level international events. And it proved to be an incredible nine days for Scotland's bowlers on the hard baked greens, with 10 of them returning home with medals as they steadily accumulated two gold, two silver and a bronze, to become the most successful nation of all-time in Commonwealth Games Lawn Bowls.

There was a first ever medal for the Women's Triples team, with Kay Moran, Stacey McDougall and Caroline Brown winning silver, and there was a bronze for Lesley Doig and Claire Johnston in the Women's Pairs.

Ronnie Duncan and Derek Oliver both made perfect Games debuts, being crowned double gold medallists. They won gold in the Men's Triples, with 2014 Men's Singles gold medallist Darren Burnett then in the Men's Fours with Alex Marshall and Paul Foster.

Alex Marshall soon overcame the disappointment of losing out to Wales in the Pairs gold medal match, winning gold in the Fours to take his career tally to five gold and one silver and become Scotland's most successful Commonwealth Games athlete of all time, with teammate Paul Foster only just behind him with four gold and a silver, moving up to third.

NETBALL

Team Scotland received an invitation to compete in the Netball competition at Gold Coast 2018 and a talented squad of 12 players were selected.

There was an even split of youth and experience, with six returning from the Glasgow 2014 team, including Captain, Claire Brownie, Vice-captain Lynsey Gallagher and stalwart Hayley Mulheron, who had over 100 caps for the national side.

Of the six athletes making their Games debut, three were age 20 or younger; Bethany Sutherland who captained the 2017 World Youth Cup team to eighth place, Beth Goodwin, named Player of the Tournament on her senior debut at 2017 Netball Europe and Niamh McCall, the first player born in the 2000s to receive a senior cap.

In the 12 team competition held at the Gold Coast Exhibition Centre, Scotland were drawn in Pool B alongside England, New Zealand, Wales, Uganda and Malawi.

Scotland suffered defeat 28-74 in their opening match as they battled hard in a fierce contest with England, the eventual winners of the gold medal match.

They then enjoyed a win over Wales in their second home nations clash. After a cagey opening half Scotland were trailing 23-24, but some good passages of play and sharp shooting from 18 year old Beth Goodwin helped drive the team on to prevail 51-47.

However Scotland lost their final three Pool matches against New Zealand, Malawi and Uganda, with the loss by one point to Malawi 50-51 in a thrilling match ultimately proving costly.

Placed fifth in Pool A, Scotland faced Barbados in the classification games. In a topsy-turvy match, Lynsey Gallagher continued to keep the Scots within touching distance and as time expired Gallagher scored to tie the game at 39-39, forcing overtime. Scotland ran out the winners 50-48 to conclude their Commonwealth Games in ninth place, matching their result at Glasgow 2014.

T eam Scotland received an invitation to compete in the Men's Rugby Sevens competition at Gold Coast 2018 and 13 athletes were selected, with two replacements subsequently made prior to the sport's arrival on the Gold Coast.

The 13-man squad was made up of seven core Scotland Sevens squad players (captain Scott Riddell, Jamie Farndale, Robbie Fergusson, James Fleming, Nyle Godsmark, Max McFarland and Joe Nayacavou), supplemented by three from Edinburgh Rugby (Glenn Bryce, Ally Miller and Darcy Graham) and three representatives from Glasgow Warriors (George Horne, Ruaridh Jackson and Lee Jones).

Captain Riddell – Scotland's most capped sevens player in history – and Lee Jones were among the most experienced sevens exponents in the group and were selected for their third Commonwealth Games, having featured in both Delhi 2010 and Glasgow 2014.

Jamie Farndale had also enjoyed Commonwealth Games experience, captaining the side at the 2011 Commonwealth Youth Games in the Isle of Man.

In the men's competition, the 16 competing nations were split into four pools, with Scotland drawn in Pool A alongside Papua New Guinea, Malaysia and South Africa, who beat New Zealand 17-12 in the final in Glasgow four years earlier.

Following the pool round-robin format, only the top team in each pool progressed through to the medal competition. This was a revised format from previous Games, reflecting the congested calendar and the fact that teams were in the midst of the World Rugby Sevens Series.

Scotland started well with convincing wins against Papua New Guinea 27-0 and Malaysia 41-0 at the Robina Stadium. However a decisive defeat 5-26 to World Rugby Series leaders and reigning Commonwealth champions South Africa ended hopes of securing Team Scotland's first ever team medal and relegated them to the classification matches.

The Scots opened their day-two account with an impressive 19-12 win over homenations rivals Wales, with George Horne combining his ever-presence in support and lighting acceleration to score twice, before Jamie Farndale strode over for his sixth try of the weekend.

The win set up a fifth / sixth place playoff against host nation Australia, who defeated Scotland 26-0 to bring their 2018 Commonwealth Games to an end with a sixth place finish, an improvement of one place on Glasgow 2014.

SHOOTING

Team Scotland selected 13 athletes to compete at Gold Coast 2018 across all four shooting disciplines of Smallbore, Clay Target, Fullbore and Pistol.

There was a wealth of experience in the team with Ian Shaw making his sixth Commonwealth Games appearance and chasing his third back-to-back Commonwealth Games medal. Five time Commonwealth Games medallist Jennifer McIntosh and younger sister Seonaid were also in the team and making their third and second Games appearances respectively.

Also competing in Smallbore and with a gold, silver and bronze to his name from previous Games, Neil Stirton was selected for his fourth Games, while Caroline Brownlie made her third Games appearance in the Pistol discipline. 20-year-old Aedan Evans, headed a list of six shooters who made their debut for Team Scotland.

Like Cycling, the Shooting venue was an hour away just outside Brisbane, however the shooters chose to stay in the Village on the Gold Coast and travel to the Belmont Shooting Centre on a daily basis for competition.

Shooting has an outstanding track record, winning medals for Team Scotland at every Games since 1974 and 2018 was no exception. 1gold, 1 silver and 4 bronze was the final tally to give them the third highest medal count across Team Scotland sports and ranked fourth in terms of golds.

lan Shaw took bronze in the Fullbore Open Queen's Prize Pairs alongside Games debutant, Sandy Walker, while David McMath, competing at his first Games, took Scotland's first ever individual gold in the Clay Target Men's Double Trap, setting a Games record in a thrilling final. Linda Pearson competing in her second Games after missing out in 2014, also showed Scotland's prowess at Double Trap with a bronze, to win her first Games medal.

There was a fourth Commonwealth Games medal and his first in an individual event for Neil Stirton with silver in the Smallbore Men's 50m Rifle Prone, whilst Seonaid McIntosh added to her family's Commonwealth Games legacy, with two bronze medals in the Women's 50m Rifle events rounding out a successful Games on the range up in Brisbane.

ive athletes were selected to represent Team Scotland at Squash at Gold Coast 2018.

Alan Clyne and Greg Lobban were amongst the first athletes to be selected and they had their sights set on reaching the podium, with Clyne having finished fourth in Men's Doubles at both the Delhi 2010 and Glasgow 2014 Games. In their first major tournament as a doubles pairing, they claimed World Doubles Championship gold against Australia in 2016 and in a reversal of fortunes backed this up with silver in 2017.

Kevin Moran, part of Scotland's bronze medal winning team at the 2016 European Team Championships, completed the men's line-up, returning for his second Games playing in the Singles and joining forces with Lisa Aitken in the Mixed Doubles. Aitken reached the quarter-finals of both Women's and Mixed Doubles at the Delhi 2010 Games and returned to Team Scotland, after an incredible comeback from serious illness. Aitken also played Women's Doubles in Gold Coast alongside 21 year-old Alison Thomson, who also contested the Women's Singles.

In the Men's Singles Alan Clyne faced off against Joel Makin of Wales in the quarter finals in a gruelling 99-minute match on the show court at Oxenford Studios. The two hugely physical players pushed each other all the way, with Makin eventually coming out on top winning the final game 12-10 to take the match. Clyne finished fifth equal, his best Singles result at a Games.

Greg Lobban reached the last 16 in the Singles, whilst, Kevin Moran who lost his first round match showed good form to reach the Classic Plate Final where he lost to Micah Franklin of Bermuda.

Sadly, there was further disappointment for Clyne and Lobban in the Men's Doubles.

Playing against number four seeds, English pair James Willstrop and Declan James, the Scots just fell short and lost the match 2-0 and along with it, the bronze medal for the third successive Games.

Battling against an ankle injury picked up in training, Lisa Aitken withdrew from the Women's Singles to focus on the Women's Doubles and Mixed Doubles.

Unfortunately neither pair progressed from the group stages.

TABLE TENNIS

Three athletes were selected to represent Team Scotland at Table Tennis for the 2018 Gold Coast Commonwealth Games.

Perth's Gavin Rumgay returned to Team Scotland for a fourth Commonwealth Games, having taken a record-equalling 12th Scottish Championship Singles title in 2017. He was joined by Craig Howieson, making his third Games appearance and debutant Colin Dalgleish, who represented Great Britain at the 2017 World University Games. Each played in the Men's Singles and Men's Team event, with Gavin and Craig joining forces in the Men's Doubles.

Playing at the Oxenford Studios, their Games got underway on day one with the Team event. Drawn in Group 5, Scotland lost their opening match to Australia 0-3 before beating Kiribati 3-0 to qualify for the last 16 as second in the group. They faced Malaysia in the next round where they lost 1-3. In the Men's Singles, Colin Dalgleish was unable to qualify through the group stages, whilst Craig Howieson went out in the last 32. Once again, Gavin Rumgay reached the last 16 where this time he fell short against England's Liam Pitchford who closed out the match 4-1.

In the Men's Doubles the Scots had a bye in the first round, then took a convincing win over Northern Ireland 3-0. However they lost in the last 16, 0-3 to England's McBeath and Walker to conclude their Gold Coast Games.

ive triathletes were selected for Team Scotland to compete at Gold Coast 2018.

There was a return to Team Scotland for Marc Austin, who thrilled the home crowd in Strathclyde Park during Glasgow 2014 as part of a three-man breakaway with the Brownlee brothers, while Grant Sheldon, 2017 World University Championships gold medallist was also selected for his second Games.

Better known as a track endurance athlete, running at both the Rio 2016 Olympic Games and 2017 World Athletics Championships, Beth Potter was selected to make her Commonwealth Games debut as a triathlete following a successful transition to the sport. She also ran the 10,000m on the track to become the first athlete to compete in two sports for Team Scotland at a single Games.

Also showing her multi-sport prowess, Team Scotland's golden girl of the track at the Bahamas 2017 Commonwealth Youth Games, Erin Wallace made an immediate step up into the senior team in Triathlon, having competed in both sports for several years. She was selected to complete the quartet for the Mixed Team Relay.

Gold Coast proved a fantastic watershed for Triathlon Scotland, as Marc Austin took the first Scottish medal of the Games and a first ever Triathlon medal for Scotland. He put in an inspirational performance to claim bronze in the Men's Individual event, ahead of World and Olympic medallists Alistair and Jonathan Brownlee with Grant Sheldon 17th. In the women's event Beth Potter was 12th.

In the Mixed Team Relay, Beth Potter, Marc Austin, Erin Wallace and Grant Sheldon put up a great fight against some quality opposition, eventually finishing in seventh place, equalling their performance in Glasgow four years ago.

A new event making its debut on the Gold Coast was Para-Triathlon in the PTWC classification for athletes who predominantly use a wheelchair and Scotland was represented by Paralympic Handcycling gold medallist Karen Darke.

After a solid swim in very choppy water, her weakest element of the swim-hand cyclingwheelchair racing combination, Darke was fifth, but produced the second fastest bike split to move up to fourth. Despite pushing hard all the way, her rivals had just too much on the day and the Inverness athlete was unable to haul herself into the medal positions, finishing fourth.

AND

our weightlifters and one para-sport powerlifter were selected for Team Scotland at Gold Coast 2018.

All four weightlifters were making their Games debut following a successful Commonwealth Championships. Former World and European record breaking powerlifter Lisa Tobias was joined by British silver medallist Jodey Hughes, 2015 Australian Champion, Scott Wilson and Scottish U23 record holder Zach Courtney.

Lisa Tobias was the first lifter to take centre stage at the Carrara Sports and Leisure Centre in the Women's 48kg category. The former gymnast only took up the sport post-Glasgow 2014 and has made huge strides to make her first Commonwealth Games. After a shaky start she nailed her final attempt at 60kg in the Snatch, before setting a Scottish Clean and Jerk record of 79kg for a combined total of 139kg, just 1kg shy of her personal best to finish in eighth position.

Teammate Jodey Hughes, also new to the sport, produced a strong performance in the final of the Women's 58kg category, amassing a total of 160kg having snatched 70kg before producing 90kg in the clean and jerk to finish ninth.

Sydney based Scot, Scott Wilson, produced a strong performance in the final of the Men's 94kg category, accumulating a total of 311kg to finish seventh. After snatching 142kg, just 3kg shy of his personal best, Wilson went on to clean and jerk a new lifetime best of 171kg to finish above his pre-event ranking.

There was disappointment for Zach Courtney in the Men's 105kg competition. He posted 130kg in the Snatch, but was then forced to withdraw due to illness.

Competing in his second Games, there was heartbreak for para-sport powerlifter Micky Yule, when for the second time in a row he finished just outside the medals in fourth place in the Men's Heavyweight final.

After failing his opening lift, Micky was successful at 172kg and 174kg to put himself in bronze medal position. Only India's Sachin Chaudhary could deny him a medal which unfortunately he did.

Having battled back from a double leg break over the last 12 months, it was an incredible performance nevertheless.

Wrestling

our wrestlers were selected for Team Scotland to compete at Gold Coast 2018.

The Wrestling team saw the return of Glasgow 2014 medallists Alex Gladkov and Viorel Etko making their second and third Games appearances respectively. Their bronze medals in Glasgow were Scotland's first in the sport for 20 years.

They were joined by Commonwealth Championships bronze medallist, Ross Connelly, and British Open champion, Joe Hendry, best known for his performances in the professional arm of the sport.

Team Scotland's wrestlers opened their Gold Coast campaign at the Carrara Sports and Leisure Centre, with Ross Connolly and Viorel Etko both contesting the Men's Freestyle 57kg weight category and Alex Gladkov in action in the 74kg event.

With all three wrestlers facing extremely tough draws it was always going to prove an uphill battle to get on the podium, with the trio losing out in their opening bout. Unfortunately for Etko, his Nigerian opponent who was tipped for gold, lost out in the semi-final after a poor tactical decision when clearly in front, costing the Scot a place in the Repechage and a chance to repeat his bronze medal feat from four years earlier.

Joe Hendry was the final Team Scotland wrestler in action as he took to the mat in the Men's Freestyle 97kg category. Hendry was more than a match for crowd favourite Nicolaas Verreynne of Australia, but trailed 2-0 at the halfway mark. With neither man able to find a winning move, Hendry threw caution to the wind in the closing 30 seconds, which ultimately cost him defeat by a fall.

2017 YOUTH GAMES OVERVIEW

The 2017 Youth Games took place in the Bahamas from 18 – 23 July 2017, with Scotland represented by 40 athletes in seven sports (Athletics, Beach Volleyball, Boxing, Cycling, Judo, Swimming and Tennis).

The athletes were supported by 18 staff with Colin Gregor, Glasgow 2014 Rugby Sevens Captain, leading the Team as General Team Manager. Included in the management of the seven sports were five former Team Scotland athletes, showing our commitment to succession planning and the development of former athletes in coaching and management roles.

Opening Ceremony

Following an action packed first day of competition on which Team Scotland celebrated their first four medals, the sixth Commonwealth Youth Games was officially declared open at a colourful ceremony celebrating Bahamian culture and its worldfamous tradition of carnival parades.

Team Scotland was led into the arena by flag bearer Lewis Johnstone, the first boxer ever to be given this honour, and received a fantastic reception from the travelling Scottish support in the stands.

Athletics

Erin Wallace was Scotland's golden girl on the track, as she timed her finish to perfection to claim victory in the 1500m in a new personal best of 4:16.61. She broke away at the bell in a group of four and passed the field in the final metres to win Scotland's first Youth Games Athletics gold since 2011. Erin was back in action in the 800m, finishing in sixth place.

Alessandro Schenini was just outside the medals in the Long Jump in fourth with a leap of 6.87m, Adam Scott took fifth in the 3000m and there was a fourth place for the Mixed 4x200m Relay. In the sprints, Fraser Angus set a new outdoor personal best in the heats of the 200m and reached the final, where he finished seventh.

Beach Volleyball

Team Scotland's first ever Beach Volleyball pair, Emma Waldie and Jennifer Lee, topped their pool with wins over Vanuatu and Jamaica. They then beat the hosts Bahamas in the quarter finals before losing out to New Zealand in the semi-finals.

They started well in the bronze medal match against Rwanda, taking the first set 21-15. In the second set Scotland had the opportunity to serve for the match, and the medal, but were unable to convert, Rwanda took the second set 24-26. Momentum stayed with Rwanda in the reduced third and final set which saw Scotland lose 10-15, to finish agonisingly close in fourth place.

Boxing

Team Scotland's boxers extended their 100% record of at least one medal at every Commonwealth Games and Commonwealth Youth Games to date. Tyler Jolly won gold in the 64kg class with a unanimous victory in the final. Flag bearer, Lewis Johnstone won silver in the 81kg category following a tough final bout. Megan Gordon become the country's first female boxing medallist as she took bronze in the 51kg class. Bronze for Taylor Hamilton and Sam Hickey brought the medal tally to five, an impressive return from eight boxers.

Cycling

Following a six-year absence for the sport from the Youth Games, Dylan Hughes won Scotland's first ever Youth Games Cycling medal, with silver in the Time Trial, which also saw a 16th place for Stephen Dent and in the women's race a fifth place for Rhona Callander.

Spurred on by her Time Trial result, in the Women's Road Race, Rhona gave an incredible performance to take the sport's first ever Youth Games gold, on the last day of the competition. In the Men's event Stephen finished 11th, with Dylan forced to withdraw on the last lap of the race.

Judo

Judo was making its Youth Games debut and was scheduled before the evening's Opening Ceremony had even begun. The team claimed four medals with Emily Ritchie going undefeated through three contests to claim Over 70kg gold, Scotland's first of the Games and a first for Judo at a Youth Games.

In the second session, Fiona Todman at Under 48kg and Emma Forrest in the Under 57kg category both earned their place in the final and picked up silver medals. In the Men's Under 90kg event, Louis Saez took home bronze for Scotland.

Connor Wilson and Ryan Quigley both faced tough opposition in their draws, with both narrowly missing out on the medals.

Swimming

Scott McLay, with three gold, one silver and one bronze medal, became Scotland's most successful Youth Games athlete in history, eclipsing the record medal tally set at the 2011 Youth Games by fellow swimmer Craig Benson. Gold in the 50m Butterfly was followed by silver in the 100m Backstroke. Over the next two days, he added 100m Freestyle gold and Mixed Freestyle Relay bronze, before a final gold in the 50m Freestyle.

There were a further two multiple medallists for Team Scotland in the pool, with Sophie Smith claiming silver in the 200m and bronze in the 100m Freestyle and Emma Harvey taking 50m Butterfly bronze before teaming up with Scott McLay, Anna Fleming and Luke Robins for bronze in the 4x100m Mixed Freestyle Relay.

Ending the Games with eight medals – three gold, two silver and three bronze – Swimming was Team Scotland's most successful sport of Bahamas 2017.

Tennis

On the final day of competition, Hamish Stewart secured a first ever Youth Games Tennis gold medal for Team Scotland, with victory in the Men's Singles event.

In the Women's Singles, Alexandra Hunter reached the quarter-finals, before being denied a semi-final place in a close match which ended 5-7 4-6.

Hamish and Alexandra teamed up for the Mixed Doubles, progressing to the quarterfinals where a strong Cypriot pairing, the eventual silver medallists, ended their run.

2015 YOUTH GAMES OVERVIEW

The 2015 Commonwealth Youth Games took place in Samoa from 5-12 September with Scotland's 28 athletes returning with an impressive 21 medals (three gold, ten silver and eight bronze). This was Scotland's best medal to athlete ratio since the 2004 Games in Bendigo, Australia.

Aside from the medals, each and every one of Scotland's athletes performed exceptionally well and were great ambassadors for their country, with swimmer Craig McLean having the honour of carrying the flag at the Opening Ceremony. The Commonwealth Youth Games is a development opportunity for athletes and staff and the whole team undoubtedly benefited from the experience. They will take away valuable lessons from these Games as well as memories to last a lifetime.

With over a quarter of previous Youth Games athletes going on to represent Scotland at the Commonwealth Games, we look forward to seeing some of these young athletes in the future. Meanwhile we look back on five fantastic days of competition in Samoa.

Archery

Scotland's archers made history the moment they lined up to shoot on the opening day. With Archery included in the Youth Games for the first time, Struan Caughey and Evelina D'Arcy became the first Scottish archers ever to compete at this level and acquitted themselves well over the course of the competition. In individual qualification Evelina finished fourth and Struan fifth, before both were eliminated in the quarter finals. In the non-medal mixed team event Evelina and her partner from Barbados shot extremely well to take second place.

Athletics

It was an exceptional performance on both track and field as all six of Scotland's vound athletes returned with medals. George Evans had the honour of claiming Youth Team Scotland's first medal of Samoa 2015 with Discus silver on the opening day, swiftly followed by sprinters Alisha Rees and Cameron Tindle taking bronze in their respective 100m finals. Rachel Alexander took bronze in the Long Jump, Carvs McAulav a silver in the 800m and Alisha returned to claim her second medal of the Games with silver in the 200m. Last of the six to perform was 800m runner Ben Greenwood and he responded in style, staying strong in the home straight to claim a new Scottish record and a bronze medal.

Boxing

Scotland's boxers are renowned for their previous success at both Youth and senior Games and Samoa was no exception as the team returned with four medals from four athletes. The atmosphere inside the arena on the night of the finals was spectacular with many athletes from other sports there to cheer on their team mates. Kieran McMaster took bronze in the 64kg event while Billy Stuart went one better with silver at 56kg. A superb bout from John Docherty (75kg) saw him take a well-deserved gold before Sean Lazzerini finished the night in style, taking less than one round to overcome his Tongan opponent and secure Scotland's second boxing gold.

2015 YOUTH GAMES OVERVIEW

Lawn Bowls

Scotland's lawn bowlers played well throughout the Singles competition, putting in long days on the greens in relentlessly hot conditions. Semi-finals places came down to the wire and both players came agonisingly close to progressing, each with three wins from five. In the final group game Darren Weir recorded a convincing win over his Northern Irish opponent but lost out on a semi final place on shots. Carla Banks, also up against a competitor from Northern Ireland, just missed out in a close 21-20 match. In the Mixed Pairs event Carla and Darren got off to a fantastic start with a win over England but losses to India, Malaysia and New Zealand ended their hopes of a semi final place.

Squash

Scotland's young squash players put in a strong performance against high quality opposition as they faced tough draws in the Singles events. Carrie Hallam met the eventual bronze medallist in the opening round while Richard Hollins, after a dominant display in his first game, came up against the top seed and eventual gold medallist. Both players learned a great deal from the experience and turned their focus to the Mixed Doubles where they played well together to finish fourth.

Swimming

Team Scotland's swimmers excelled with seven medals, including Scotland's first gold of the Games from Erin Robertson in the 50m Breaststroke. Erin also picked up a bronze in the 100m Breaststroke. Meg Finnon opened and closed the swimming medal rush with silver in both the 200m Butterfly on the opening day of competition and 800m Freestyle on the final day. Flagbearer Craig McLean took 100m Freestyle silver and there were bronze medals for Tain Bruce in the 100m Butterfly and Kieran Preston in the 50m Breaststroke as he touched just ahead of team mate Benedict Tortolano in fourth.

Tennis

Scotland's tennis duo were some of our busiest athletes, spending long days on the court. Their stamina was well rewarded with 15 year old Ewen Lumsden making all three finals, despite facing opposition up to three years older than himself, and Louie McLelland making two of three possible finals. Ewen took silver in the Men's Singles and won the Men's Doubles with his Cypriot partner, while Louie won the Women's Doubles with her partner from Barbados. The pair then teamed up to take a welldeserved silver in the Mixed Doubles to complete a fantastic tournament.

Weightlifting

It was a fantastic opening day for Biatrice Gabell who won silver in the Women's 53kg with six perfect lifts. She set new Scottish Youth and Junior records in the process and took one of Scotland's first medals of the Games. Daniel Richardson was another lifter in Scottish record breaking form as he took sixth in the Men's 69kg, while in the Men's 77kg Jason Epton put in a strong performance to finish fourth, his total just shy of his own British record. Rowan Morrogh Bernard unfortunately didn't register a total in the Women's 58kg, but will take a lot from her experience in Samoa.
